ROSE HILL CEMETERY
Ravine Drive
Matawan, New Jersey

Rose Hill Cemetery was established in 1858 on land purchased from James Fountain. Mr. Fountain and 13 other area residents were the first shareholders. The cemetery is situated on the east side of Ravine Drive near its intersection with Middlesex Road, and about a mile from Main Street. It is close to the Cheesequake area of Old Bridge Township as well as the Cliffwood section of Aberdeen Township. Many from these areas are buried here. The uniqueness of Rose Hill is its topography. From the highest point, one can view Raritan Bay and the skyline of New York City. It was believed to have been a lookout area for the local Leni Lenape tribe and arrowheads and other evidence of Indian activity have been found at Rose Hill.

There are over 700 plots, although not all have stones on them, arranged in 11 sections. There are some stones weathered by age that cannot be read. Over the years, mismanagement, lack of interest by descendants of plot owners, and vandalism have led to vegetative overgrowth and broken stones. In 1986 a group of interested plot owners and nearby residents began an aggressive campaign to maintain the cemetery properly. Joseph Uras was employed to clean up plots and upright stones, and his diligent work is evident to all who visit.

All the plot owners owe their deepest gratitude to Helen Dolan and Suzanne Miller who were the "push" that got Rose Hill looking like a cemetery should. They have worked many hours since 1986 in seeing that Rose Hill is managed properly. Pat McKeen is also to be thanked in lending her business expertise (and address) to the Rose Hill Cemetery Co.

I began copying the inscriptions in 1986. Since then, there were so many stones uncovered that I found it necessary to redo the entire cemetery. Sections H-L were completed in 1993 and the rest in 1994. Any burials or stones added since then, will not be included in this index. If you need to contact the Rose Hill Cemetery Co., the address is 295 Main Street, Matawan, NJ 07747.

NOTES TO TOMBSTONE INSCRIPTIONS AND INDEX

This is a listing of tombstone inscriptions. It is not a list of everyone buried in Rose Hill. Some of those listed are not buried here (i.e., Jane, consort of Asbury Fountain and daughter of James Frost, Esq. - James was probably not buried here). Please refer to the interment book index for others who may be buried here.

Rose Hill is divided into 11 main (A-H,J-L) and some minor (Sunny Side, Vernon Lawn, Windsor Terrace, Polaris and the Vaults) sections. Thus A 01 refers to plot 1 in section A. A 02A and A 02B indicate that plot 2 was divided in half. Two or more adjacent plots under the same ownership are listed together (A 06&39). Each full plot is about 20 ft. x 20 ft. Please refer to the map for plot locations. For each plot listing, there is information, if any, about that plot (i.e., tombstones overturned, presence of corner markers, etc.). Each stone is numbered, but not in any particular order. If a stone has more than one side inscribed, it is listed as l.a., l.b., etc. No stone has more than four sides. Some stones have only a surname inscribed and in these cases there is a plot number after the surname in the index. Dots (...) indicate part of the inscription is too faded to read.

There are over 3000 entries in the index. If a woman has a maiden name, it is included in parenthesis after her given name and given a separate listing in the index. If a woman was married, but no maiden name given, (---) follows her given name. In some instances, it is assumed a woman was married. These include two names inscribed on the same stone with one surname, two identical stones side by side, etc. In determining this, I wanted to include as many surnames as possible in the index. There may be a few instances where marriage was implied and shouldn't have been. As an example, in Plot A 16&19, Lillian Newman Gehlhaus could have been the wife or sister of William or Otto Gehlhaus. In order to bring Newman into the index, I assumed it was a maiden name. In some instances, only given names are on a stone (this is common with children), so check plot listings for surnames in which you're interested. If more than one person with the identical name is buried in a plot, the name is only listed once.

This index and listing was compiled by one person. There are bound to be some mistakes. In some cases, the plot listing is different from ownership records listed with the Rose Hill Cemetery Co., so check with them if you need to know your family's plot number.

ROSE HILL CEMETERY INTERMENT BOOK

This is an index of names found in the Interment Book which are not found on tombstone inscriptions. The letters and numbers following the names refer to the plots in which the Interment Book indicates the person is buried. The name could also refer to a person who bought the plot, but was not necessarily buried there.

The Interment Book is in the possession of the Rose Hill Cemetery Company, 295 Main Street, Matawan, NJ 07747.
